Interested in setting up your own company?

In secondary School?

Have an idea you think could be a food business?

The FoodIE Summer School 2019 is for you! Hosted by TU Dublin, you will work with experts in Food Science over the course of 5 days to develop your idea into an innovative product using the latest food technologies and sensory science. Don't have an idea but still interested in setting up your own company? No problem, we have a number of ideas we want to share and see developed using a range of novel ingredients. The summer school is also for students considering a future career in the food sector as you will gain hands on experience. www.foodiesummerschool.com
